

Colin Johnston

is a partner at Lenczner Slaght.

Colin's litigation practice focuses on healthcare litigation and administrative law. He has appeared as counsel before all levels of court in Ontario and in hearings before various administrative tribunals. Colin regularly represents professionals in civil and regulatory proceedings. He is a trusted advisor on issues in healthcare law, including medical assistance in dying, mental health law, hospital governance, medical malpractice, and professional regulation.

From 2009 to 2014, Colin was counsel to the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario, where he appeared as lead counsel in numerous hearings before the College's Discipline and Fitness to Practise Committees. He previously practiced litigation at a large national law firm in Toronto, representing clients in complex commercial and regulatory disputes.

- No Notice, No Dice: Divisional Court Reiterates Need for Proper Notice of Case Against – A recent Divisional Court case involving the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario reaffirms the importance of ensuring that findings of professional misconduct by the College's Discipline Committee fairly arise from the allegations contained in the College's Notice of Hearing.
- Back from the future: Horri v CPSO affirms the need for consistency in professional discipline penalties – In Horri v The College of Physicians and Surgeons, the Divisional Court reaffirms the importance of consistency and justification when a professional regulator sanctions one of its members. Penalties for misconduct should fall within the range established by previous case law, and regulators should exercise caution before departing from precedent on the basis of "changing social values."
- Rohringer v. RCDSO: revisiting the test for interim orders against health professionals – Effective May 30, 2017, professional regulators under the Regulated Health Professions Act received a new power to temporarily restrict or suspend the licence of a health professional during the course of an investigation into allegations of misconduct or incompetence. Previously, regulators could impose such measures only after the conclusion of an investigation and commencement of a Discipline Committee proceeding. This raises the question, what is the appropriate threshold of risk that must be established in order to suspend or restrict the licence of a professional whose case is still under investigation? What evidence is required? What reasons must be given in order to justify such an order? These questions are considered in the recent decision of Rohringer v Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario 2017 ONSC 6656.
