- Languishing in Langenecker? Court of Appeal Says “No More” – In Barbiero v Pollack, the Ontario Court of Appeal has departed from Langenecker v Sauve and changed the law of dismissal for delay under Rule 24.01. Where a delay is found to be both inordinate and inexcusable, that alone is sufficient to dismiss the action. Plaintiffs can no longer allow an action to languish for years and then rebut the presumption of prejudice to keep it alive.

- Severing a Single Sentence: The Interplay of the Employment Standards Act and Severability Clauses – Employers sometimes rely on severability clauses—which provide that any clauses that are found to be illegal or unenforceable are severed from the agreement and that the agreement otherwise remains in effect—to hedge against the risk that clauses in employment contracts could be found to run afoul of the Employment Standards Act and be unenforceable as a whole. However, in its recent decision in North v Metaswitch Networks Corporation, the Court of Appeal for Ontario signalled that these clauses have limited effect when parties include terms in agreements that contract out of minimum employment standards.
- Personal liability in the corporate context: open-ended, unclear and expansive – The Supreme Court of Canada’s recent decision in Wilson v Alharayeri, may have far reaching implications for corporate director liability. The unanimous decision affirmed an award for compensation for oppression directly against two directors of a corporation by relying on the leading case on the issue, Budd v Gentra.
- Deference gives way to procedural fairness in PEI decision – Administrative lawyers and regulators should take note: in Swart v. College of Physicians and Surgeons of Prince Edward Island the Prince Edward Island Court of Appeal provided express guidance in the prosecution of complaints against doctors.
