

Education

Osgoode Hall Law School (2021) JD
 London School of Economics (2012) MSc
 University of Toronto, Trinity College (2011) HBA

Bar Admissions

Ontario (2022)

Contact

T 416-798-5951
 jkhaled@litigate.com

Jennah Khaled

JENNAH KHALED

is an associate at Lenczner Slaght.

Jennah was a summer and articling student at the firm, where she began to develop her practice in commercial litigation, professional liability, bankruptcy law, and administrative and public law.

Prior to rejoining the firm, Jennah served as a judicial law clerk to the Honourable David W. Stratas at the Federal Court of Appeal and the Honourable Malcolm Rowe at the Supreme Court of Canada.

Jennah completed her JD at Osgoode Hall Law School, where she mooted competitively, received a number of course prizes, and was Managing Editor of the Osgoode Hall Law Journal.

Before law school, Jennah spent four years at the United Nations in Vienna on a diplomatic team working towards a major Middle Eastern arms control agreement.

RECOGNITION

- Dean's Gold Key Award
Osgoode Hall Law School
- Harry R. Rose Prize
Osgoode Hall Law School
- Jenny Sferrazza '16 Prize for Criminal Law
Osgoode Hall Law School

SELECT PUBLICATIONS AND PRESENTATIONS

- Litigator vs Transactional Lawyer – Christopher Yung and Jennah Khaled spoke at a joint event hosted by the University of Toronto's Black Law Students' Association and South Asian Law Students' Association, where they shared valuable insights on the key differences between careers in litigation and transactional law.
- Courts Without Cases: The Law and Politics of Advisory Opinions by Carissima Mathen and Seeking the Court's Advice: The Politics of the Canadian Reference Power by Kate Puddister – Jennah Khaled authored a book review titled "Courts Without Cases: The Law and Politics of Advisory Opinions by Carissima Mathen and Seeking the Court's Advice: The Politics of the Canadian Reference Power by Kate Puddister". This article was published in Volume 58, Issue 2 of the Osgoode Hall Law Journal.

BLOG POSTS

- Ontario Court of Appeal Rules on Defamation and Online Reviews – In Benchwood Builders Inc v Prescott, the Court of Appeal for Ontario provided further guidance on the interpretation of section 137.1 of the Courts of Justice Act, commonly known as anti-SLAPP legislation. This legislation provides a quick screening mechanism to dismiss lawsuits that unduly limit expressions related to a matter of public interest – often referred to as Strategic Lawsuits Against Public Participation (SLAPP).
- Annual Review of Insolvency Law Virtual Conference: 2022 – On February 4, 2022, CAIRP held its 19th Annual Review of Insolvency Law. The conference brought together insolvency law practitioners from across Canada for a showcase of papers authored for the latest edition of the Annual Review of Insolvency Law publication. The journal itself is now available in full on CanLII. Each panel was anchored by an ARIL paper whose author(s) led spirited discussions on contested topics important to the future of the insolvency practice.

SELECT NEWS ARTICLES

- Lenczner Slaght Welcomes 10 New Associates – Canada's leading litigation firm continues to strengthen its talent pool with the addition of 10 exceptional associates.
- Osgoode Grads Serving Canada's Top Courts as Law Clerks – Including the Supreme Court of Canada – Barbara Brown and our 2021/2022 articling student, Jennah Khaled, have both secured court clerkships at the Supreme Court of Canada beginning in August 2023. Read their interview with their alma mater, Osgoode Hall Law School.
- Lenczner Slaght Welcomes Our 2021/22 Articling Students – Canada's leading litigation firm continues to strengthen its talent pool with the addition of seven articling students.
- Lenczner Slaght Welcomes Eight New Summer Students – Canada's leading litigation firm continues to attract top talent with the addition of eight exceptional summer students.