Jessica's practice focuses exclusively on eDiscovery. Jessica reviews and analyzes client document data for production. She assists the firm's litigators in evidentiary analyses, including identifying key documents, drafting summaries of evidence and chronologies, and responding to undertakings. She is also experienced in the project management and quality control of outsourced document reviews. Jessica is proficient in the use of litigation review software and is able to fully optimize the analytics that these programs offer. Jessica's experience coupled with her advanced software knowledge allows her to provide cost efficient and effective document productions for her clients.

Prior to joining the firm Jessica was an Associate Project Manager in the discovery management group at a leading national law firm. Jessica has conducted evidentiary productions for a wide variety of cases including large scale construction matters, competition matters and class actions.
