

Samantha Hale

is an associate at Lenczner Slaght.

Sam's litigation practice covers a wide range of areas, including commercial disputes, professional liability and regulation, civil matters, and public litigation.

Prior to rejoining the firm, Sam served as a law clerk to Justice Suzanne Côté at the Supreme Court of Canada. She also completed a clerkship at the Divisional Court and Superior Court of Justice in Toronto, where she assisted judges on a wide variety of administrative appeals, judicial reviews, class actions, civil trials, and commercial matters.

Sam has appeared at all levels of court including the Supreme Court of Canada.

Sam received her law degree from the University of Windsor, where she completed a Masters of Social Work concurrently. Sam excelled academically, graduating as the Gold Medalist and being selected as the Valedictorian of her class. While in law school, Sam worked as a research assistant for multiple professors, served as the Executive Articles Editor for the Windsor Review of Legal and Social Issues, and co-founded a student-led initiative discussing access to justice issues.
