Avenue Internship Program's End-of-Term Panel

Susannah Alleyne spoke at the end-of-term panel for the Ontario Bar Association's Avenue internship, where she shared what inspired her to pursue a legal career and how her path has evolved over time. She discussed how her identity has shaped and strengthened her practice, offered ideas for how legal professionals can better support Black and Indigenous students entering the profession, and provided guidance to help internship graduates work toward their long-term goals.
