Corey McClary Joins Lenczner Slaght's IP Team

Canada's leading litigation firm continues to grow its expert Intellectual Property Group with the addition of another exceptional lawyer, Corey McClary.

Corey specializes in intellectual property law, with an emphasis on pharmaceutical patent litigation. Corey has experience advising clients on complex disputes, including actions under the Patented Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations, patent infringement and impeachment actions, and judicial review proceedings. Corey also regularly provides strategic patent and regulatory advice.

Whether it's synthesizing scientific concepts into clear and concise language for the courts or developing novel legal strategies, Corey knows how to innovate and leverage his creativity and depth of knowledge to overcome challenges and develop winning strategies for his clients.

"We are excited that Corey has chosen to join our firm!" says Managing Partner, Monique Jilesen. "Corey's broad range of IP experience, his technical expertise, and his unique perspective means he knows what it takes to deliver the best results for our clients. We look forward to working with him!"

Prior to joining Lenczner Slaght, Corey summered, articled and practiced in the intellectual property litigation group at a leading international law firm in Toronto.

Before attending law school, Corey obtained a Ph.D. in organic chemistry. His graduate research focused on developing methods for the regioselective functionalization of carbohydrates and measuring the strength of non-covalent interactions. His research has been published in peer-reviewed scientific journals.

Welcome, Corey!
