

October 5, 2015

Revisiting the Standard of Review for Patent Construction

In two recent cases, the Federal Court of Appeal provided "certain observations" on whether "the time has come to reconsider the view that appellate courts are to review patent construction on the basis of correctness."